Audiovisual service of the University of Lleida

Audiovisuals is a university scientific research unit attached to the Rectorate, on which it functionally depends. Its specific purposes are:

The production and reproduction of images, which consist of the creation, processing and duplication of images aimed at meeting the demands of the university and external community.

The creation of a fund of images and audiovisual programs of a scientific, didactic or institutional nature.

Advice and technical support to the university community, in aspects of image reproduction related to teaching and research tasks.

The promotion and realization of training courses and learning techniques in the reproduction of images and audiovisual media, related to teaching and research tasks.

The interrelationship with external services at the UdL.
